ABOUT COFFS HARBOUR REGIONAL LANDCARE

Introduction

The following Volunteer Policy and Procedure is the guiding document for volunteer management at Coffs Harbour Regional Landcare Inc. (CHRL). This document sets out the rights and responsibilities for both CHRL volunteers and CHRL management and sets out the procedure for becoming a volunteer with CHRL. If you have any questions relating to the Volunteer Policy and Procedure document please contact the Community Support Officer at Coffs Harbour Regional Landcare.

The role of Coffs Harbour Regional Landcare Inc.

Coffs Harbour Regional Landcare is an incorporated not-for-profit community group acting as the umbrella group for approximately 40 land-caring groups and associations in the Coffs Harbour area. Membership with CHRL is open to everyone and the organisation is managed by an elected executive committee.

Many of the members and member groups operate on public land in the Coffs Harbour Local Government Area. These volunteers work on coastal sites within the Coffs Coast

Regional Park, on Council Reserves or other public land managed by NSW National Parks & Wildlife Service, by Coffs Harbour City Council or by the Crown Lands Division of the NSW Dept of Primary Industries.

Coffs Harbour Regional Landcare aims to assist and support individuals and groups involved in land, water and vegetation management. This assistance may include help with access to funding programs, information and training, negotiation CHRL members at a working bee in Karangi with government agencies, organisation of field days and other training opportunities, lobbying for useful land management assistance, or putting people in contact with others involved in similar activities.

Although CHRL relies upon a range of government funding programs, it operates independently from government and is not politically affiliated or linked to government.

Coffs Harbour Regional Landcare works closely with other agencies such as, North Coast Regional Landcare, Coffs Harbour City Council (CHCC), NSW National Parks & Wildlife Service (NSW NPWS) and other groups such as EnviTE and Australian Conservation Volunteers.

Volunteering

Coffs Harbour Regional Landcare defines volunteering as an activity that is:

- of benefit to the community and the volunteer
- of the volunteer's own free will and without coercion
- undertaken for no financial payment

Objectives of the Association

The objectives of the Association are:

- to promote the principles of ecological sustainable development (ESD) and increase the understanding of natural resource degradation issues in the local community and educational institutions
- to identify problems relating to the degradation of natural resources in the local area or district and provide a forum for discussion and exchange of ideas
- to foster co-operation between local landholders and land managers and others to plan and seek resources for, take action on and monitor the results of preventing, treating and controlling natural resource degradation and managing and using natural resources more sustainably
- to support and encourage Member groups and volunteers at Locality sites in their endeavours to achieve improved environmental outcomes
- to assist in gaining funding and any other assistance for the benefit of any or all the sites it embraces, including making representations to all levels of government and non-government agencies

- to function as a not-for-profit organisation where the assets and income of the Association shall be applied solely in furtherance of its above mentioned objectives and no portion shall be distributed directly or indirectly to the members of the Association, except as bona fide compensation for services rendered or expenses incurred on behalf of the Association
- to establish not-for-profit nurseries, for use by members and the community, for the benefit of the environment
- to employ a Community Support Officer to further the objectives of the Association
- where it furthers the objects of the Association, to amalgamate with any one or more other organisations having similar objects, provided that the other organisation(s) have rules prohibiting the distribution of its (their) assets and income to members; and are exempt from income tax

COFFS HARBOUR REGIONAL LANDCARE VOLUNTEER MANUAL

Introduction

What is Landcare?

Landcare is unique Australian а movement that harnesses individuals and groups under the ethic of caring for the land and encompasses individuals and groups across the whole landscape from coastal to urban and remote areas of Australia. Landcare groups and Landcare projects are typically identified as being rural, regional or agricultural in nature. Landcare groups characteristically consist Friends community groups, environmental groups, land managers or Members from the Serenity Beach Landcare Site land owners such as farmers or primary producers. The term landcare also includes dunecare, coastcare, junior landcare and bushcare groups and activities.

Volunteers are an invaluable asset of every Landcare community and they perform a range of tasks including:

- managing the organisation
- the environmental restoration of degraded sites through assisted natural regeneration
- weed control
- revegetation with native species
- assisting in developing and managing restoration projects
- involvement in awareness raising events

Coffs Harbour Volunteer Landcare Program

Most of the approximately 40 landcare groups in the Coffs Harbour Local Government Area operate on publicly owned land, managed by Coffs Harbour City Council, the NSW National Parks & Wildlife Service or the Crown Lands Division of the NSW Dept of Primary Industries.

Most of these volunteers are members of Coffs Harbour Regional Landcare Inc. These groups are engaged in bush regeneration with the aim of restoring natural bushland.

Other Landcarers operate on private land and on farms and are engaged in the protection of local waterways and biodiversity and in sustainable farming practices.

What is bush regeneration?

Bush regeneration aims to rehabilitate the bush from a weed infested or otherwise degraded plant community to a healthy community composed of locally occurring native plants. Bush regeneration programs are long term commitments that require development of a variety of skills, concepts and techniques. These cannot be obtained overnight; they developed are through combination of learning, research, Weeds can have a major impact on biodiversity.

observation and practical application.

Bush regeneration is not just weed removal; it is an integrated approach that encourages the bush to 'bounce back' through natural processes. It must also consider other environmental aspects, such as fauna habitat, drainage, weed sources, nutrient levels, disturbance, and the resilience of the native bushland to re-establish itself. Sometimes areas are so badly degraded, that natural regeneration is minimal and revegetation may prove to be the most successful solution.

What is the Coffs Harbour Landcare Volunteer Manual

The Volunteer Manual is the guiding document for volunteering with CHRL. The purpose of this document is to provide a reference tool for the rights and responsibilities for both CHRL volunteers, member groups and CHRL management and describes the procedure for becoming and working as a volunteer with CHRL.

These are intended to provide direction to volunteers and CHRL so that, together they can safely achieve quality results while fulfilling legislative and financial requirements. These procedures identify that all sites must be dealt with on their merits and are flexible to account for site and group differences.

If you have any questions relating to the Volunteer Manual document please contact the Community Support Officer at CHRL.

Aim of the Coffs Harbour Volunteer Landcare Program

The Coffs Harbour Volunteer Landcare Program aims to increase community awareness and engagement in issues of natural area restoration by providing guidance and support to community members who are interested in their local natural environment.

Guiding Principles

The Coffs Harbour Volunteer Landcare Program adheres to the following guiding principles:

 The government agencies managing public land have responsibility for the condition of the natural assets they manage, the safety of volunteers working in these areas and for the safety of the general public.

- Volunteers play an important role in the management of these natural areas.
- The volunteer program should be well structured and resourced.
- CHRL and the land managers appreciate the commitment and professionalism offered by volunteers.
- Volunteers should not be coerced or exploited.
- The volunteer program should not be seen as a replacement for government agency Bushland Restoration programs.
- All volunteers need to operate in accordance with existing applicable Workplace Health and Safety Policies (in place for CHRL, NSW NPWS, CHCC and Crown Lands Division of NSW Department of Primary Industries). All volunteers are required to comply with the procedures, guidelines and approved site plans.

CHRL organise a variety of training events for volunteers

Benefits of the Coffs Harbour Volunteer Landcare Program

The Coffs Harbour Volunteer Landcare Program provides benefits to both the general community and the individual volunteer. The benefits to the general community that stem from a volunteer bush regeneration program include the reversal of bushland degradation, the development of community spirit, a sense of pride and achievement, the conservation of biodiversity, raising community awareness, education and the improvement of aesthetic values related to natural bushland.

The individual volunteer also gains a number of benefits from their involvement with the program. These include:

- A great outdoor working environment
- Healthy, active and fun activities.
- Social interaction (meeting other volunteers).
- Training opportunities.
- Learning more about natural ecosystems and environmental processes.
- A sense of personal achievement though community involvement.

Definitions

Coffs Harbour Volunteer Landcare Program: The program involves community volunteers in the management and restoration of natural areas under the control of Coffs Harbour City Council, NSW National Parks & Wildlife Service or the Crown Lands Division of NSW Department of Primary Industries.

Coffs Harbour Landcare Volunteer: A person who freely contributes their services and skills without coercion or financial reward while registered as a member of Coffs Harbour Regional Landcare Inc.

Site Coordinator: A landcare volunteer, who acts as contact person and coordinator for the group at a registered work site, communicates activities and incidents to CHRL and the land manager and keeps records of on-site activities. Site coordinators also coordinate compliance with WH&S requirements on site.

Landcare Volunteer Group: A group of registered members of CHRL undertaking bush regeneration and associated works on registered work site/s on publicly owned land or an incorporated Landcare Group that is a group member of CHRL.

CHCC Bush Regeneration Team: Professional bush regenerators employed by Coffs Harbour City Council to work in natural areas under their management.

NPWS Field Officer: A person employed by the NSW National Parks and Wildlife Service to carry out bush regeneration and management activities in natural areas under their management.

Bush Regeneration Contractors: A qualified bush regeneration contractor employed by Coffs Harbour City Council, NSW National Parks and Wildlife Service or Coffs Harbour Regional Landcare to undertake site supervision or contract bush regeneration work.

NPWS Volunteer Card: Volunteers working in NSW National Parks are issued a Volunteer Card which entitles them to a discount in National Parks Visitor Centres. After completion of 50 hours voluntary work per year, volunteers can receive one All Parks Pass.

Registered Work Site: Landcare work site, usually on public land, registered with CHRL and the respective land manager, where CHRL volunteers are working according to an approved work plan or under the direction of the land manager.

Support

Coffs Harbour Regional Landcare provides a support service for our volunteers and the projects they initiate. CHRL also recognises that project 'ownership' is an essential aspect of successful community natural resource management. The level of support provided therefore reflects the desire of CHRL to support projects that are initiated, developed and implemented by volunteers. We aim to provide support to:

- Assist the existing and growing network of landcare, dunecare and other community groups involved in NRM as well as individual landholders with access to funding, information, and training.
- Provide opportunities for training and skills improvement by providing relevant and practical field days and workshops at no or low cost.
- Assist volunteers to develop local projects to meet local needs.

Managers of public land may provide additional support to volunteers while working on public land, in the form of supportive contract work and/or technical oversight, as identified in the Volunteer Agreement between CHRL, CHCC and NSW NPWS.

Workplace Health & Safety

The Work Health and Safety Act 2011 aims to protect the health and safety of all people in every place of work in New South Wales. Under the Act employers, employees and the self employed are to meet certain standards of health, safety and welfare.

Failure to comply with WH&S regulations can result in serious penalties for both CHRL and CHRL volunteers. The Committee of Coffs Harbour Regional Landcare has prepared a Workplace Health and Safety Policy and Procedures Kit for the safety of volunteer workers and employees. This kit outlines the CHRL WH&S policy and procedures and covers hazard identification and risk assessment procedures as they relate to Landcare activities. The kit also contains a generic Site Induction Sheet, a register for recording member details, including any medical conditions that may be relevant to their volunteer work, an Incident and Injury Report Form and a Hazard Report Form as well as information about the safe use of chemicals.

Volunteers' rights and responsibilities in regard to their WH&S obligations to CHRL include:

- Volunteers undertaking activities in association with the organisation have a shared responsibility to maintain high standards of workplace safety.
- Volunteers are to be consulted in relation to any issues that affect their health and safety and will be appropriately inducted to meet requirements under this policy.
- Volunteers are expected to read and acknowledge their understanding of, as well as follow the procedures outlined in the WH&S Policy and Procedures Kit.
- Volunteers should immediately report any accident, injury or hazard to the Community Support Officer or the CHRL Executive Committee.
- Volunteers must wear personal protective equipment as required.

The managers of the public land, where Landcare Volunteers are working have their own WH&S policies and Landcare Volunteers are expected to adhere to those respective policies as directed by the land manager.

Insurance

All CHRL members are covered by the CHRL volunteer accident and injury insurance policy provided that:

- They are a financial member of CHRL.
- They are working on an approved CHRL worksite and are adhering to the Operational Workplan.
- Or they are working on an approved CHRL activity.
- They sign on prior to commencing work.

HOW TO VOLUNTEER WITH CHRL

New members are encouraged to join existing CHRL worksites. Existing worksites often have established coordinators who are experienced in bush regeneration techniques. Joining these groups will allow you to work on a site with an established workplan and an existing network of volunteers.

When you first make contact with the CHRL office you will most likely be given the contact details for several worksites in your local area. New volunteers are encouraged to contact these site coordinators prior to joining CHRL. This will give you an opportunity to discuss work times, the current focus of work, and if possible, attend a working bee with the group. Unregistered volunteers are able to attend their first working bee without being a member of CHRL as long as they have signed-on at the start of the work session, are made aware of any hazards at the site (WH&S Induction), and are wearing clothing appropriate to the activity.

If a suitable worksite does not exist in your local area there may be the option of establishing a new worksite. The decision to create a new worksite will be made by the land manager in consultation with CHRL. Due to limits in available resources in CHCC, NPWS and CHRL not all requests to establish new groups will be successful. Please call the CHRL office if you would like to discuss this option further.

After a new volunteer has identified a suitable worksite they are required to complete an Application for membership form (included in the Appendices) and return it to the CHRL office. All information collected during the application process will be treated as confidential.

an approved worksite

PROGRAM PROCEDURES

Most volunteers working on public land in the Coffs Harbour LGA are Landcare Volunteers and are covered by this manual. Those volunteers who are working independently from CHRL are volunteers of the organisation that manages the land they are working on. They are not covered by this manual. These volunteers may be members of another incorporated landcare or community group and should refer to the either the volunteer procedure of the group they are a member of or the volunteer policy of the land managing agency.

Membership with CHRL

Members of Coffs Harbour Regional Landcare Inc. are either ordinary members or members of member groups. A member group is defined as;

"any incorporated organisation that is addressing any environmental degradation issue in the Coffs Harbour region and accepts the objectives and rules of the Association", that are also an approved member of CHRL.

CHRL keeps a register of membership and of work sites where members are registered to work on public land. Written applications for membership are received any time and memberships are renewed annually. Members of CHRL receive member benefits including training opportunities, access to CHRL resources, including plants from the community nursery, networking and quarterly newsletters. All current members of CHRL working for CHRL or at CHRL work sites are covered by insurance for accident and injury. They also receive equipment and materials relevant to their work as well as site-specific training.

Volunteering in bush regeneration work on public land

Coffs Harbour Regional Landcare has developed a Volunteer Agreement with Coffs Harbour City Council and the NSW National Parks & Wildlife Service outlining procedures for CHRL members working on land managed by these agencies.

This agreement defines the responsibilities for the management of the sites and for the volunteers at those sites. The land managers are responsible for the management of the site while CHRL is responsible for the support of the volunteers. A summary of the roles and responsibilities outlined in the agreement are included below.

Site Assessment & Planning

Volunteers and land managers assess the site and develop a work plan together. CHRL provides an agreed template for this. The resulting work plans are working documents and will be reviewed when necessary in consultation with the land managers.

Education & Training

Volunteers intending to work in bush regeneration on public land are to complete a training workshop in methods of bush regeneration with CHRL. The land managers will conduct a site WH&S induction for each group of volunteers.

CHRL will also endeavour to provide members with appropriate training in Workplace Health and Safety and First Aid. In addition to these courses other training and workshops on a variety NRM issues and management techniques will be provided to all CHRL members when funds are available.

Materials & Equipment

The land managers provide necessary materials and equipment such as plants, mulch, stakes, tree-guards. CHRL provides personal protective equipment such as hats, gloves, insect repellent as well as first aid kits. Volunteers provide their own protective clothing and foot wear.

Volunteer groups

Usually, there is a group of volunteers working at an approved CHRL worksite on agreed work days. All these volunteers must be members of CHRL in order to receive insurance cover. CHRL provides a template for record keeping for each work site and collates the records of group membership, group activities and working hours, achievements and outcomes at these sites. These records are made available to the land managers.

Site Coordinators

• Site Coordinators keep records of volunteer attendance and work hours and activities, including area weeded, trees planted.

- Site Coordinators also communicate with the land managers as necessary about materials required.
- Site Coordinators notify CHRL about any hazards and incidents, especially personal injuries.
- Site Coordinators carry out supervision of volunteers in the absence of a land manager staff member for the implementation of the site work plan.

On-site work procedures

All Landcare work has to comply with relevant legislation and regulations, and must comply with the site specific work plan. Volunteers are expected to follow the agreed work plan for the site and to follow the directions of the relevant land managing staff member.

Safety Procedures

Safety of all volunteers is of high priority for the Coffs Harbour Volunteer Landcare Program. To ensure the safety of the landcare volunteers, the following minimum work conditions are required:

- Volunteers are encouraged to work with at least one other person on site.
- Volunteers are not permitted to use power tools
- Volunteers are not permitted to undertake any herbicide spraying.

CHRL will provide safety equipment to all volunteers. This includes:

- Gloves
- Sun hat
- Sun screen
- Insect Repellent
- First Aid Kit for each group.

Although additional Personal Protective Equipment can not be provided by CHRL volunteers are still required to wear long-sleeved shirts and long trousers for protection from sun and scratches, as well as closed foot wear with good tread.

All volunteers should also be aware of the nearest medical facility to their work site and any injury should be seen by a doctor and reported to CHRL.

It is also the responsibility of the volunteers to avoid any unnecessary risk when working on site (please refer to both the land manager and CHRL WH&S policy).

Conflict Resolution / Grievance Procedures

Conflict and / or grievances amongst group members or between the volunteers and the land manager will be referred to CHRL for mediation. The CHRL constitution outlines the procedure for conflict resolution.

Signage

CHRL has developed signage for volunteer work sites, which can, when available and appropriate, be used by CHRL volunteers. Signage acknowledges the volunteer effort, raises awareness of bush regeneration work and can be encouraging for members of the public to also engage in this type of work. These signs are provided by CHRL when available.

Waste

Considerable amounts of waste can be generated through bush regeneration activities.

Organic waste: Volunteers are expected to deal with organic waste on site. This will be piled into small windrows or used as mulch if possible. Organic waste that could regrow, such as plant material likely to sucker, tubers & seed heads will be either composted under black plastic, weighted down to prevent light penetration or removed from site, or placed in residential green waste bins.

Inorganic waste: Rubbish found on site, such as bottles, plastic bags or containers, will be removed by volunteers. CHCC will remove rubbish from the Coffs Coast Regional Park and Council reserves, when the amount or nature of the rubbish is too difficult for volunteers to deal with. The group leader has responsibility for that communication to the designated staff member at CHCC.
